

IRIS LEARNING

Leadership | People | Teamwork | Quality | Performance

I coach leaders and teams seeking creative ways to use their talent for competitive business advantage.

I am a consulting partner for complex projects that require high-performance in safety, quality, communication, knowledge management and stakeholder collaboration.

I am a trusted advisor to executives who are building great businesses and developing high-performing teams.

Brian Cooke is founder and senior leader of IRIS Learning and BrianCooke.me

Brian's consulting emphasizes people strategies and principles of quality and lean management that enable and accelerate performance breakthroughs.

Brian's coaching develops leadership awareness, communication, resilience and strategic use of competitive strengths.

Brian earned an AB and EdM from Harvard University. He lives in Albuquerque NM and advises business leaders throughout the world.

Brian has assisted life sciences, energy, engineering, and constructions firms since 1994 with focus on:

- leadership and mobilization of project teams
 - alignment of partners on business-critical deliverables
 - strategy, leadership development, teambuilding, bidding and business development
 - quality and lean management principles and tools that strengthen company and project capabilities for excellence in project delivery
 - coaching and leadership development for senior executives and high potential next generation leaders
-

Some of the design, engineering and construction firms that value IRIS Learning services include: SKANSKA, GILBANE, AECOM/Hunt, Arcadis, M+W Group, and Manhattan Construction.

Our public sector clients include: US Army Corps of Engineers, US Naval Facilities Engineering Command, US Air Force National Capital Region, US Department of Energy, County of Los Alamos NM, Los Alamos National Labs NM, and Sandia National Labs NM